

HEAD OF HEALTH AND WELLBEING

Full-time (40 weeks per year)

Competitive salary depending on experience.

Are you interested in being part of Central's integrated approach to health and wellbeing in a vocational dance conservatoire?

Central School of Ballet is looking for an experienced physiotherapist to lead the Health and Wellbeing Team which delivers physical and mental health support to Central School of Ballet's young dancers. The Head of Health & Wellbeing will directly engage in the treatment and support of our higher education students (aged 16+), whilst also managing a team of part-time and freelance practitioners.

Central School of Ballet is an internationally recognised centre for professional training in ballet and dance, based at The Countess of Wessex Studios on the Southbank. With a clear focus on quality and access, we offer a higher education conservatoire vocational training, validated by the University of Kent, and continue to work to address issues of under-representation in ballet and higher education.
